This is a game for individual players or teams. The object of the game is to complete a journey from Damascus to Rome, visiting nine other places on the way. Players answer questions correctly in order to move on.

Each player starts at Damascus, and throws a dice to choose a question to answer. If the question is answered correctly, the player move on to Lystra, if not, he stays at Damascus and waits for his next turn. The process is repeated at each city.

At Crete there are only 3 questions to choose from, so the player has to throw 1-3. Similarly at Rome the player has to throw 1 or 2.
