Dry up the Red Sea

Materials

A4 card, crayons, glue, scissors, paper fastener

Fold the card in half. Cut round the picture below and stick it to the card on the right hand side of the fold. Cut out the sea (the shaded area) and colour the rest of the picture. Draw along line A to mark the inside of the card.

Cut a 15 cm diameter circle from white card and colour half for the sea and half for dry ground. Attach the circle to the inside of the card with a paper fastener through the centre, and slightly above line A to make sure that the fastener does not show when the card is closed. The edge of the circle should overlap the edge of the card slightly.

Fold the front of the card over and glue the top and bottom corners at X.

Turn the circle to make the sea become dry ground.
