

Here are some of the things Jesus taught his followers but some of the words have been copied wrongly. Can you correct them?

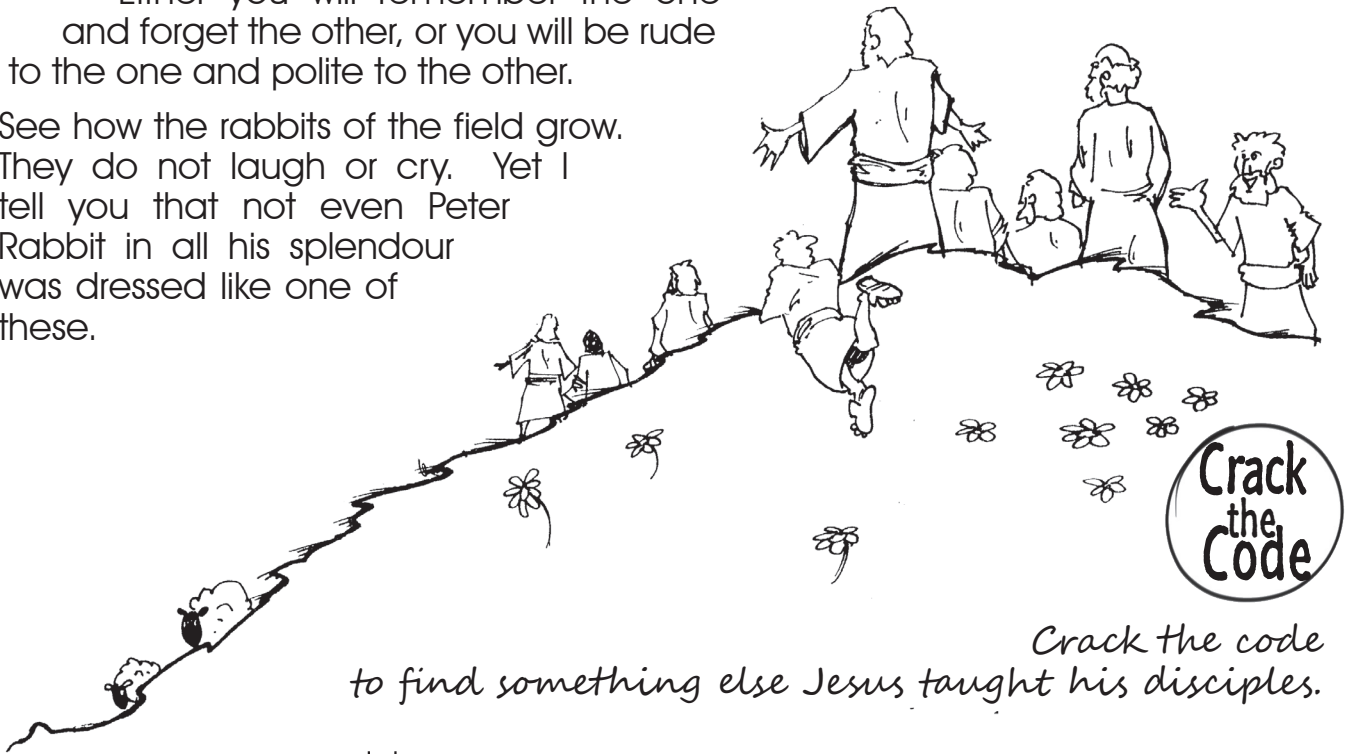

You are the pepper of the earth. But if the pepper loses its pepperiness, how can it be made peppery again?

Neither do people light a match and put it under a bed. Instead they put it on a chair, and it gives light to everyone in the house.

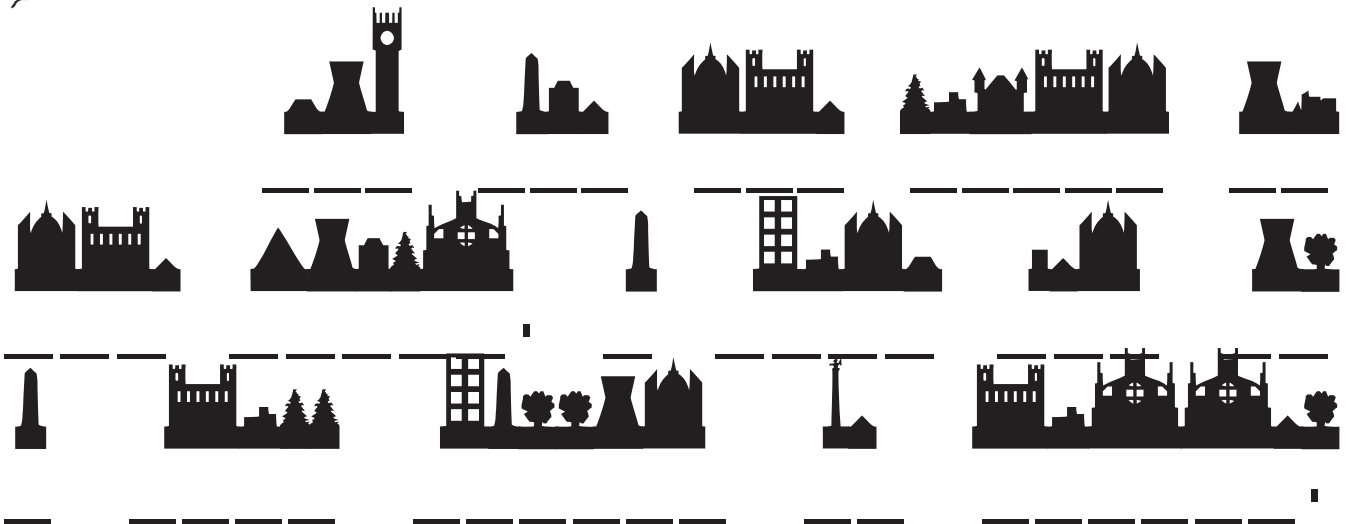

Store up for yourselves food in heaven, where butterflies and monkeys do not destroy, and where teachers do not break in and shout.

No one can serve two masters. Either you will remember the one and forget the other, or you will be rude to the one and polite to the other.

See how the rabbits of the field grow. They do not laugh or cry. Yet I tell you that not even Peter Rabbit in all his splendour was dressed like one of these.

Crack the code to find something else Jesus taught his disciples.
